Nick Ashburn, CSRIC

Head of Responsible Investing, PNC Asset Management Group

Nick is the Head of Responsible Investing (RI) for the Asset Management Group. In this role, Nick leads the investment, operational, and product strategy for RI, which includes providing RI investment solutions for individuals, families, and institutions; advancing the firm's research and analytical capabilities on environmental, social, and governance (ESG) topics; and developing content and brand awareness for RI at PNC.

Prior to joining PNC, Nick led impact investing research and education at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania and was a host on SiriusXM's Business Radio. He held teaching positions at the University of Texas-Austin and the University of Pennsylvania, and he was a Fulbright Fellow in Austria. Nick also worked in impact venture capital, the nonprofit sector, and strategy consulting.

Nick graduated with a Bachelors in German and international political economy from Belmont University and a Masters in international development from The University of Pennsylvania. Nick holds the Chartered SRI Counselor designation. He serves as a voting member of the AMG Proxy Voting committee and actively participates in the AMG and C&IB Diversity and Inclusion Council.
