FRIDAY, DECEMBER 13, 2019

APA Hotel Woodbridge in Iselin, NJ

Tim Delaney

President & CEO, National Council of Nonprofits

Tim Delaney is President & CEO of the National Council of Nonprofits, a trusted resource and the leading advocate for America's charitable nonprofits. He's a seasoned attorney and policy advocate who has successfully argued in the U.S. Supreme Court, testified before Congress, negotiated in the White House, and prosecuted the removal of elected officials from office. A former partner at a large law firm, Tim later served as Solicitor General of Arizona and then Chief Deputy Attorney General before leading the Center for Leadership, Ethics & Public Service, which promoted ethical leadership across the country.

Since 2008, Tim has led the National Council of Nonprofits, which is the largest network of nonprofits in the country and the only nationwide, sector-wide entity that integrates policy analysis and advocacy both vertically (local, state, federal) and horizontally (legislative, executive, judicial) on issues of concern to all subsectors of the 501(c)(3) community, such as charitable giving, nonprofit nonpartisanship, regulatory oversight, property-tax exemptions, and much more. It looks out for the common good of the entire sector – and focuses especially on the health and well-being of small and midsized charitable nonprofits (97 percent of nonprofits have budgets less than $5 million; 92 percent less than $1 million). The National Council of Nonprofits recently published Nonprofit Impact Matters, a landmark report that tells the nonprofit story from the nonprofit perspective for a nonprofit audience and presents the latest data on the national scope and impact of charitable nonprofits. A related microsite offers even more information, including valuable state-by-state data.

Numerous organizations have formally recognized Tim's community and professional contributions, including the National Association of Attorneys General (co-recipient of the Best Brief Award for legal writing in the U.S. Supreme Court), LBJ School of Public Affairs (Distinguished Public Service Award – alumnus of the year), ASU School of Public Affairs (Faculty Associate Award for teaching excellence), the City of Phoenix (which dedicated the Delaney Family Playground in recognition of his years of public service), and the NonProfit Times (named as Power & Influence Top 50 nonprofit leaders in the country seven times – most recently in 2019).
